

Life after the Census: Using Administrative Data to Analyse Society

The 2011 Census is likely to be the last in the present format. Whatever system is chosen to replace the census will have a major impact on social science research. Given this, the NILS Research Forum is organising a conference on 9 May, 2012, entitled: Life after the Census: Using Administrative Data to Analyse Society. Its purpose is to inform the debate over the replacement of the census from the perspective of social science.

The flier below outlines the programme.

For any further information and booking please email life_after_the_census@ulster.ac.uk

Print