

Tuesday, 25 November 2014

Health Protection

The Public Health Agency (PHA) has a lead role in protecting the population from infection and environmental hazards through a range of core functions including communicable disease surveillance and monitoring, operational support & advice, and education, training and research.

The effective management of infectious disease depends on high quality surveillance. Surveillance of communicable gastrointestinal infectious disease provides timely information so that public health action can result.

Details

Format

A4 pdf

Target group

Health professionals

Downloads

Attachment	Size
N Ireland Gastrointestinal Surveillance Report 2013_0.pdf	959.95 KB

Tags

- Professionals

Print